Breastics24h

The name “Breastics24h” stands for “Breast Oncoplastic Surgery around 24 hours”. So, this event will be an around-the-clock event following the daylight starting from Central Europe on 20 September 2025 Saturday at noontime UTC (Coordinated Universal Time), moving on to the West, making a full turn around the globe and finishing at Eastern Europe on 21 September 2025 Sunday at noontime UTC. The language of the meeting will be English and registration is free. These dates are specifically chosen for the audience’s convenience as they are equinox times where days and nights are almost equal at both the southern and northern hemispheres.

The aim of Breastics24h is to provide education to those who are at the beginning of their training in breast surgery. Since the definition of oncoplastic surgery covers two outcome measures as a whole which are adequate resection of cancer burden in the breast with acceptable and satisfactory cosmetic outcome.

Very eminent and highly experienced surgeons and faculty members from all around the world will take roles in this organization as tutors by giving lectures, demonstrating videos of different surgical techniques, communicating at structured panels, discussing different and interesting cases and answering your questions. The core scope of the meeting will be indications, planning, shared decision-making, preparation for surgery, marking, surgical techniques, intraoperative problem-solving, immediate postoperative care, issues related to adjuvant treatments, complication prevention & management, critical thinking & long-term outcomes (oncological, cosmetic, quality-of-life & satisfaction) as well as risk assessment and management in women with high-risk.
